The Quran is full of moral values, teachings and prayers. These values guard believers from evil and wrongdoing. If a person has good moral values, he is not only successful in the world but is raised up in the eyes of Allah.
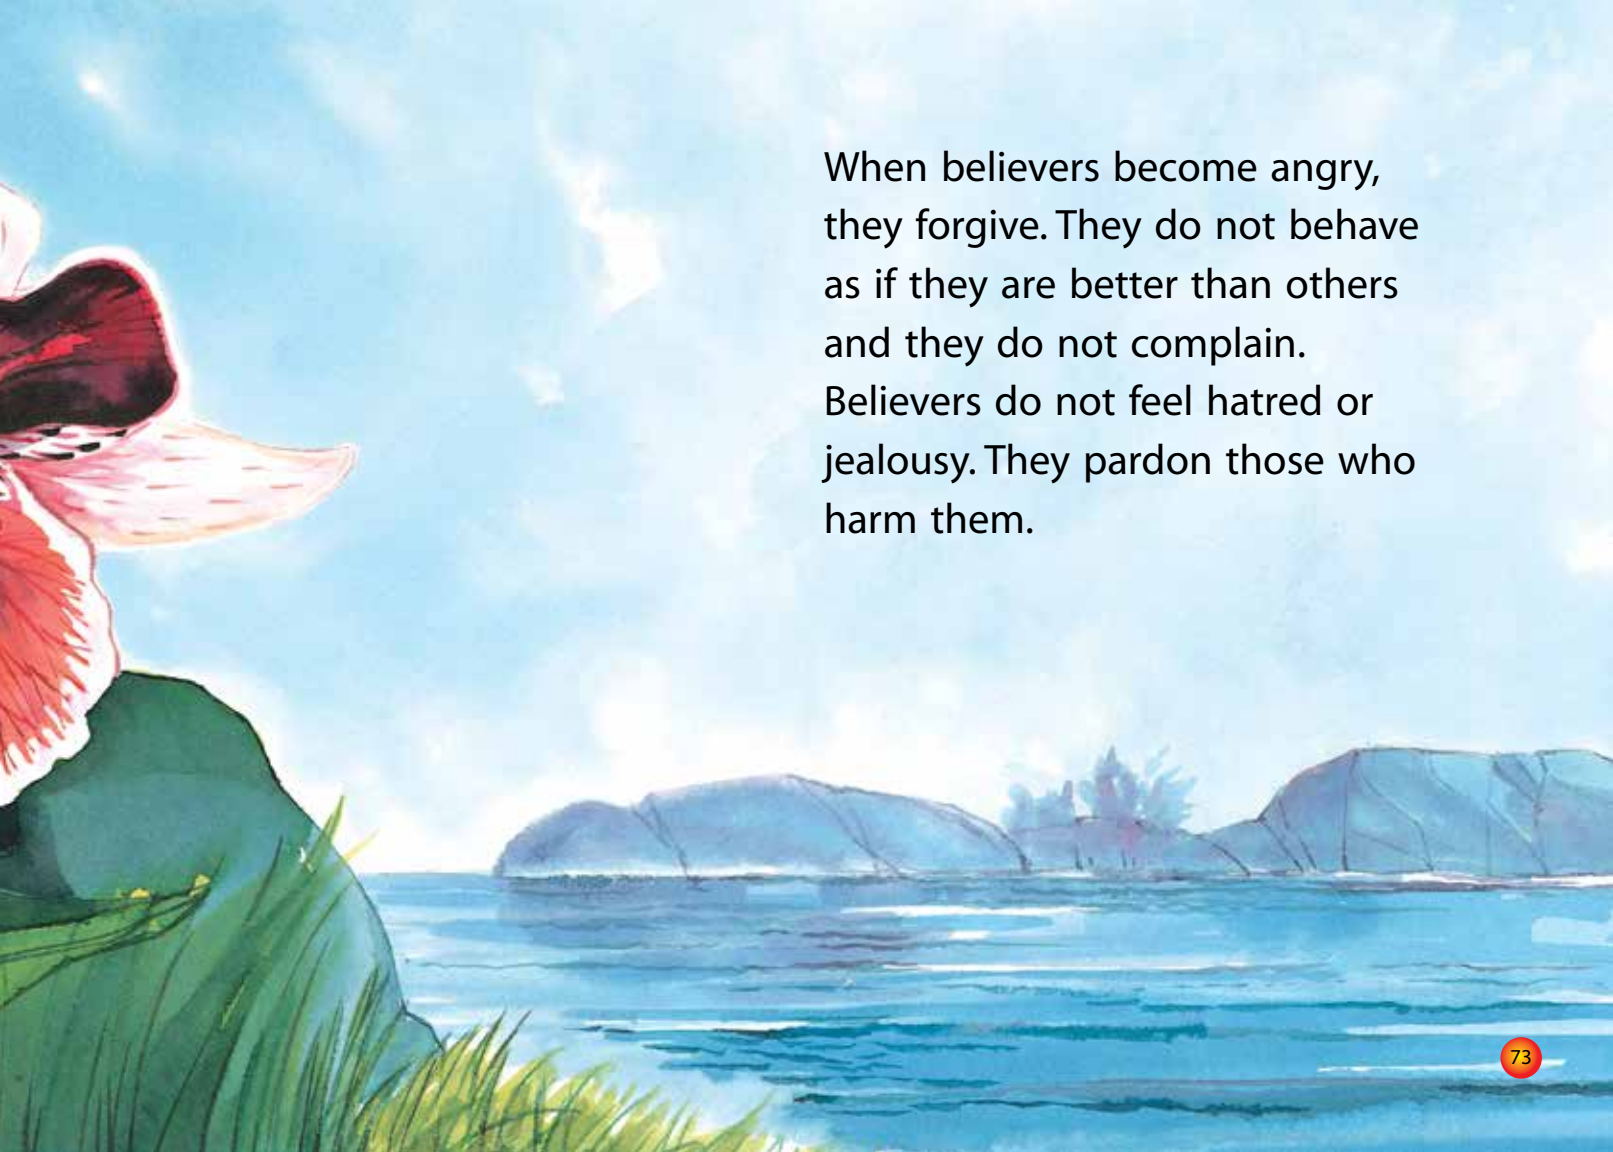

Believers are thankful to their parents. They respect their parents and elders and avoid profane talk.

Believers are trustworthy. They keep their promises. They guard their chastity.

When believers become angry, they forgive. They do not behave as if they are better than others and they do not complain. Believers do not feel hatred or jealousy. They pardon those who harm them.