

The Prophet Muhammad ﷺ used to sit near the Kabah and explain passages from the Quran to people. One day as usual he was sitting near the Kabah and explaining the message of the Quran to some ungodly chiefs of the Quraysh tribe in the hope that they would listen to his message and accept Islam.

The Prophet Muhammad ﷺ was annoyed at the blind man, cutting in like this and spoke roughly with him.

But Allah did not like the way the Prophet ﷺ responded to the blind man, who had come to seek guidance from him. The following verses of the Quran were then revealed to the Prophet ﷺ:

The story of the blind man reminds us that no one in this world is superior to others, even if he has a high rank and position.
